Women currently make up the fastest growing number of small business owners. Hearing that, we wondered what drove these entrepreneurial ladies to leave the conventional workforce and stake out on their own.

We asked female small business owners from around the world to share the catalyst that compelled them to leave their old lives behind so they could pursue their passions and live authentically. From their responses we created this book. Whether you seek motivation to start your own endeavor or just enjoy reading positive tales of feminine strength, these stories will both warm your heart and embolden your spirit. Get inspired so you can break free from what holds you back and live your life unbound!
